

The WHITING Group Announces Acquisition of Actual Innomotive

1/22/13 – The WHITING® Group is pleased to announce the acquisition of Actual Innomotive, a leading European innovative solutions provider specializing in actuators, lifting devices, and electrical devices/components.

The engineering and product development capabilities from Actual will allow WHITING® to expand product offerings and solidifies our corporate goal of being the best design partner and custom engineered solutions provider to the specialized vehicle market.

With offices in Holland, Germany, and Malaysia, the acquisition of Actual provides The WHITING® Group of Canada with the opportunity to expand the distribution of our diverse product selection internationally including AMDOR® Specialty Roll-Up Doors, Luma Bar® LED Lighting, CommandLIFT®, and DRW Supplies.

“From our industry leading conventional roll-up truck and trailer doors, specialty shutter style doors, remote door openers and LED lighting technologies, to our specialized processes, we are focused on innovation and continuous improvement. This focus has been instrumental in helping us achieve the growth that we have experienced over the years and it will be even more important in the future. As the global economy evolves, we will continue to bring new ideas to our customers and we will continue to improve existing products and processes” – Bruce Whitehouse, President
